

In 1961 Jane Jacobs's famous book "Death and Life of Great American Cities" was published. It begins, "This book is an attack on current city planning and rebuilding (...) It is an attack, rather, on the principles and aims that have shaped modern, orthodox city planning". With this radical approach Jane Jacobs challenged the discipline of urban planning. In 2011 we will celebrate this famous book's 50th anniversary. Ever since her first book was published there has been discussion on whether she should be called "urban hero" or "trouble maker". Other publications variously refer to her as "Queen Jane", an "urban visionary", "anti planner" or even "urban guru".

The myth that grew around her was based on her book as well as her work in the grassroots movements of New York City where she (and others) fought against slum clearances and Robert Moses' highway construction projects that were planned to cut through urban neighbourhoods. In 1968, as this approach to urban renewal was slowly beginning to change in New York City she and her family moved to Toronto to avoid her two sons being drafted into the Vietnam War. On her arrival in Canada she was celebrated as "our Jane" and soon accepted as the expert on urban issues and urban renewal. Jane Jacobs's approach in all her publications was unusual; she did not work with statistics and maps, but aimed simply to "seek the truth from the facts". A recent article claimed that, "she had more enemies than any American woman". In her last book Jane Jacobs referred to a paradigm shift, although not to the one she had influenced. She calls planning a "pseudoscience", but how could a layperson like Jane Jacobs, who was not part of any scientific networks, develop new paradigms?

Today many theorists and practitioners are thinking about a new paradigm shift in the current period of rapid globalisation and neoliberal as well as deregulated approaches to planning. In this context it is useful to reflect on the background and context of paradigm shifts and their chief players and theoreticians. The discussions to be held during this conference will not be limited to the North American perspective. Not only did Jane Jacobs's ideas and influence cross the Atlantic and reach Europe, they also influenced urban planning and urban renewal worldwide. For this reason we want the conference to open up a transnational as well as transdisciplinary discussion of Jane Jacobs's work.

The conference language is English.

Location:

Hamburgmuseum
Holstenwall 24, 20355 Hamburg
U- and S-Bahn stop "Landungsbrücken"

Registration

Mail or Fax to:
christina.blume@hcu-hamburg.de dirk.schubert@hcu-hamburg.de

HafenCity University Hamburg
Winterhuder Weg 29
D-22085 Hamburg

fon +49 40 428 27 - 45 13
fax +49 40 428 27 - 45 16

Make payment to:

HafenCity Universität Hamburg
Bank account: 20 001 564
BLZ: 20 000 000 Deutsche Bundesbank
IBAN: DE 5 520 000 000 001 564
Swift Code: MARKDEF1200

Reference / Verwendungszweck:
Tagung „Queen Jane Jacobs“

Name of participant:

All participants will receive abstracts of all presentations and CVs. Coffee, tea and water on both days in the morning and in the afternoon are included in the fee of 60 € and 30 € for students.

As there are only about 60 places for participants the number is limited and registration will be made on first come first registered basis.

Gestaltung: blueBOX, HCU

HCU

HafenCity Universität
Hamburg

Universität für Baukunst
und Metropolenentwicklung

Queen Jane Jacobs

Jane Jacobs and paradigm shifts in urban planning and urban redevelopment

Conference, May 12/13 2011

Organisation: Prof. Dr. Dirk Schubert, HCU

Program

Thursday, May 12th 2011

9.30 Welcome and Introduction

Karin Loosen (Chair of Federation of German Architects – Branch Hamburg)

Walter Pelka (President of HafenCity University Hamburg)

Celina Kress (GSU – Gesellschaft für Stadt- und Urbanisierungsforschung)

José Luis Sáinz Guerra (IPHS – International Planning History Society)

10.00 Jane Jacobs and Urban Planning:
Paradigm Shifts and/or Problem Turning

Dirk Schubert (HafenCity University Hamburg)

10.30 Coffeebreak

11.00 Jane Jacobs – Saint Jane and the Dragons

Chair: Sebastian Haumann (Technical University Darmstadt)

Jane Jacobs – The Self-Organizing City

Mary W. Rowe (Urban Fellow – Municipal Art Society of New York)

New York's West Village – a Great American Failure?
Gentrification and the Limits of Community Advocacy in the U.S.

Christopher Klemek (George Washington University DC)

Jane Jacobs and Toronto

Richard White (University of Toronto)

Questions and Comments

12.30 Lunch

14.00 Jane Jacobs “broadside attack” and
“the failure of town planning”

Chair: José Luis Sáinz Guerra (Universidad Valladolid)

How much did paradigms shift?

Continuities of Participation in US-cities, 1955-1975

Sebastian Haumann (Technical University Darmstadt)

Contrasting Jane Jacobs’ Urban Design Rejection with Kevin Lynch’s Approach

Jörg Seifert (HafenCity University Hamburg)

Questions and Comments

15.00 Coffeebreak

15.30 Jane Jacobs “Urban Hero” or “Trouble Maker”?

Chair: Dirk Schubert (HafenCity University Hamburg)

Jane Jacobs in Shrinking Regions: an Application of Jacobs’ Economic Thought

G. J. Haspers (University Twente, Netherlands)

Observations on Urban Planning Policies in the Light of Jane Jacobs

Peter Zlonicky (München)

Questions and Comments

16.30 End of first day program

Friday, 13th May 2011

9.30 Jane Jacobs “Cities First”

Chair: Jörn Weinhold (HafenCity University Hamburg)

More than Building Regeneration.

The Shift Towards Gentle Urban Renewal in Vienna.”

Christiane Feuerstein (Vienna)

The Neighbourhood Movement, City Planning and its Rationale in Spain

José Luis Sáinz Guerra (Universidad Valladolid)

Questions and Comments

10.30 Coffeebreak

11.00 Jane Jacobs – “A Radical Thinker”

Chair: Celina Kress (Center for Metropolitan Studies Berlin)

Jane Jacobs & Sharon Zukin:
Utopia, Authenticity and Gentrification

Madeleine Lyes (University College Dublin)

Jane Jacobs and the 1960s “Density Turn” in Urban Planning

Nikolai Roskamm (Technical University Berlin)

12.00 Lunch

13.30 Jane Jacobs “Anti Planner” or “Urban Visionary”

Chair: Dirk Schubert (HafenCity University Hamburg)

Jane Jacobs 2.0 – Old Systems Need New Ideas:
New Forces of Decline and Regeneration.

Birgit Dulski, Gerben van Straaten

(Nyenrode Business Universiteit – Center for Sustainability)

New Paradigm Changes in Times of Globalization and Deregulation

Uwe Altröck, Friedhelm Fischer (University Kassel)

Questions and Comments

14.30 Coffeebreak

15.00 “We are all Jacobean”

Chair: Friedhelm Fischer (University Kassel)

Urban Ecology as New Planning Paradigm

Stephen Goldsmith (University of Utah)

What (would) Jane Jacobs Have Said and her Relevance for Today and Tomorrow

Klaus Brake (Center for Metropolitan Studies Berlin)

Questions and Comments

Summary and Conclusions

Dirk Schubert (HafenCity University Hamburg)

16.30 Ending