TOWN PLANNING REVIEW

Town Planning Review has been one of the world's leading journals of urban and regional planning since its foundation in 1910. With an extensive international readership, TPR is well established, providing a principal forum for communication between researchers and students, policy analysts and practitioners.

TPR welcomes both full-length research papers (8-10,000 words) and shorter research reports (3-3,500 words) exploring the:

- theory and analysis
- method and techniques
- history and law
- policy and practice
- governance and institutions of all aspects of town and regional planning. Focusing on advanced economies and emerging industrial states, TPR particularly welcomes papers relating to the fields of:

- spatial planning
- regional analysis and development
- regeneration and renewal
- local and regional economic development
- community planning and participation
- social cohesion and spatial inequalities
- housing area planning and development
- urban design and conservation
- environmental planning and sustainable development
- transport planning
- rural planning and development

Submission to TPR is via Manuscript Central.
